Conference Overview

Sexual assault and domestic violence are both forms of violence against women and are often linked in services, professional response, and public discussion. While the two movements share common goals and have opportunities for collaboration, one or the other is often eclipsed when the two are joined together. This one-day conference will look at sexual assault and domestic violence both separately and together in an effort to identify ways to enhance collaboration between them, while also supporting their distinctive needs. State and local collaborative efforts that address the complete needs of victims of violence will also be highlighted.

Cost:

The registration fee is $10.00 per participant.

Make check out to: Emory University.

The fee includes continental breakfast, lunch, and breaks.

The fee is non-refundable if you decide not to participate in the conference.

Display Tables: There will be display tables with information and resources from local, state, and national organizations for participants to take with them. You are encouraged to bring information about your organization to share with other participants. Check the box on the registration form if you are bringing information to share; there is no additional fee. We encourage displays to be set up before the conference begins.
